Archtober

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9, 2021 | 10 AM – 1 PM

Center for Architecture + Design, Philadelphia, PA,

1208 Arch Street, 1st Fl, Philadelphia, PA

with Center for Architecture, New York, NY via Zoom Livestream

Coffee 10 AM (Philadelphia)

Panel Discussion 10:30 AM – 12 PM (Philadelphia & New York)

Build Your Own Box Lunch 12:00 – 1:00 PM (Philadelphia)

Join the Community Design Collaborative (Philadelphia) and the Center for Architecture (NYC) for a cross-festival event featuring some of the leading voices in community-led design.

Bridging the Design Philadelphia and Archtober festivals, this panel discussion will highlight prominent design nonprofits in each city to reflect on the 50+ year legacy of neighborhood design centers and how they are now more needed and relevant than ever. Panelists will examine how design can be used as a tool for systems change, forwarding principles of design justice, and cultivating community empowerment and agency. Discussion with the audience will consider community engagement as the standard in all design and planning processes.

Sponsor this exciting two-city exchange. Proceeds benefit the Community Design Collaborative.

Should the City of Philadelphia place capacity limits on indoor gatherings, the Collaborative will reduce the quantity of tickets for onsite participation and provide tickets for the online experience. It also may be necessary to convert 100% of the Philadelphia onsite tickets into online tickets for the Zoom livestream panel discussion.

Masking will be required for the Philadelphia in-person gathering and seating will be a refreshment-free zone
